

THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 3.

RAISE PORK FOR YOUR OWN USE AND FOR SALE.—The old theory with our farming community used to be that hog raising was unprofitable. It is a notorious fact that many agriculturists who used to raise from 1,000 to 5,000 bushels of wheat yearly, always bought their bacon! There were, of course, losses to be met with in the way of stealing—during slave times—and there were losses by hogs breaking into wheat and corn fields; but despite these drawbacks, the farmer would have found steady profits accruing even then by raising his own pork and curing his own bacon. The droppings of the hogs for fertilizing purposes, would of itself have been a remarkable compensation, in itself considered. We would like to enforce this briefly. Immediately at the close of the war, an old master told one of his faithful servants to work as much of his land as he could, and he would not charge him any rent. The colored man got a hog or two, and cultivated corn on the land assigned him. The next year the old master told him he might continue as before. The darkey, by way of experiment, took the droppings he had saved of the penned hogs, and applied as far as they would go. After the crop of corn matured, he separated the crop—taking as many rows that had none of the fertilizer, and carefully measured the result, when he found that he had gained in production, an amount equal to all the corn that he had fed the two hogs the year before, on the ground where the manure had been applied. —Fredericksburg Herald.

Alexandria Gazette

FOR

1875.

THE ALEXANDRIA GAZETTE AND VIRGINIA ADVERTISER has already entered upon the last quarter of a century of its existence. Few newspapers in the country are its seniors. During all this period its prominent object has been to advance the interests of the people of whose life it is the daily chronicle. Its fortunes have been their fortunes; it has shared their prosperity and suffered in their disasters. Its inspiration has been the desire to forward the best interests of the community in which it is located, and its own prosperity is, as it has been purposely made, inseparable from that of the community that it aims to represent. When they grow rich it hopes for a reward commensurate with its labors. While they are poor, it expects to work with them and for them, expecting to make their success the measure of its own.

The past of the Gazette is offered as an index of its future. It has never failed to avail itself promptly of all the improvements which come with the greater growth and more extended experience of journalism.

The Gazette means to be the newspaper of Virginia.

It will furnish daily a complete account, with superfluities only lopped away, of all the current news of the world.

As the interests of the people mainly centre at home, no pains will be spared to chronicle all matters occurring in the city and neighborhood, carefully excluding unseemly expressions or gross narrative as unfit for a journal that is treasured at many thousand hearthstones of Virginia.

Special attention will be devoted to presenting, as well from original sources of information as from its exchanges, the news of Virginia.

Its contiguity to Washington gives the Gazette an early precedence over all the journals of the State in intelligence of the operations of the General Government, now of such vital importance to the people of the South. The proceedings of Congress will be regularly reported in succinct form for its columns, but all matters of especial interest in Virginia will be given in detail.

From the State Capital it will receive early and accurate accounts of the proceedings of the General Assembly and of all the operations of the State government likely to interest the people.

In its commercial columns the especial feature will be promptness and accuracy. The farmers, drovers and commercial people of the State know they may depend upon the Gazette.

Early and reliable reports of the Grain, Cattle, Grocery and other Markets will be furnished, and the prices and position of the stocks, which are the subjects of business transactions in this section of the country, carefully quoted.

The continual favors of those who have once used the Gazette as an advertising medium is a warrant for saying that it pays to advertise in its columns.
